

Winter Weather Advisory for CLT Passengers

Winter Weather Advisory Final Update 11 a.m., Monday, Jan.17, 2022

- Airlines continue to resume operations today.
- Before leaving for the airport, passengers are advised to frequently check with their air carrier for information on cancelations or delays.
- The terminal lobby will remain busy today. Allow plenty of time for parking, check-in and security checkpoints.
- Weather conditions in other parts of the country may affect additional flights today.
- Fourteen aircraft have been deiced this morning and deicing operations will continue as needed to assist airlines.
- Black ice may be on many roadways leading to the Airport. Passengers should use caution if driving to CLT.
- Staff continues to treat any remaining ice on the roadways and airfield.
- CLT continues to work with its partners and airlines to assist passengers.
- Receive the latest updates by following CLT on Twitter and Facebook.
- This is the final Inclement Winter Weather Update.

Inclement Winter Weather Advisory No. 6 5:22 a.m., Monday, Jan.17, 2022

- The airport is open and operational.
- Several flight cancelations are occurring this morning.
- Most airlines plan to resume full operations by this afternoon.
- Weather conditions in other parts of the country may affect flights today.
- Travelers are encouraged to frequently check with their air carrier for information on cancelations or delays before coming to the Airport.
- Black ice may be on many roadways leading to the Airport. Passengers should use caution if driving to CLT.
- Staff continues to focus on removing snow and ice from the airfield and airport roadways, overpasses and parking lots.
- All three of the Airport's parallel runways are open.
- Deicing operations have resumed this morning.
- TSA security checkpoints are opening and airport shuttle buses are operating.
- CLT continues to work with its partners and airlines to assist passengers.
- Receive the latest updates by following CLT on Twitter and Facebook.
- The next winter weather update will be at later this morning.

Inclement Winter Weather Advisory No. 5 9:41 p.m., Sunday, Jan.16, 2022

- Several flight cancelations are scheduled for tomorrow morning. Most airlines plan to resume full operations by the afternoon.
- Travelers are encouraged to frequently check with their air carrier for any cancelations or delays before coming to the Airport.
- Tonight, airport staff will focus on clearing snow and ice from the airfield and airport roadways, overpasses and parking lots.
- Deicing operations are scheduled to resume in the morning. Nine planes were deiced today.
- Shuttle buses will operate as normal on Monday.
- TSA security checkpoints will open in the morning.
- Currently, all three of the Airport's parallel runways are open.
- Black ice may be on roadways leading to the Airport. Passengers should use caution when driving to Charlotte Douglas.

- CLT continues to work with its partners and airlines to assist passengers.
 - Receive the latest updates by following CLT on Twitter and Facebook.
 - The next winter weather update will be at 5:30 a.m. Monday
-

Inclement Winter Weather Advisory No. 4
5:01 p.m., Sunday, Jan.16, 2022

- Charlotte Douglas International Airport remains open.
 - Flight cancellations continue throughout this evening and tonight. American Airlines, which operates 90% of CLT flights, has canceled all departing flights today and more than 100 flights for Monday.
 - Travelers are advised to check with their airline for information on cancellations, delays or rebooking before coming to the Airport.
 - Plowing of the runways and taxiways is ongoing.
 - Currently, one of CLT's three parallel runways is open.
 - All CLT roadways and bridges have been treated.
 - Roads to the Airport, however, may be hazardous. Please use caution when driving.
 - Deicing trucks are on-site for airlines if needed. Nine airplanes have been deiced today.
 - Light sleet and freezing rain continue to fall at the Airport.
 - The next winter weather update will be posted by 10 p.m.
 - Receive the latest updates by following CLT on Twitter and Facebook.
-

Inclement Winter Weather Advisory No. 3
11:25 a.m., Sunday, Jan.16, 2022

- Charlotte Douglas International Airport remains open.
 - The majority of airlines serving CLT have canceled flights for today. Passengers should check with their airline for cancellations or delays before coming to the Airport.
 - The Airport's snow teams were activated last night.
 - Five airplanes were deiced this morning. CLT has had minimal departures today.
 - Currently, two of CLT's three parallel runways are open.
 - Plowing and deicing of the airfield are in progress.
 - Airport roadways, overpasses and parking lots continue to be cleared.
 - Sleet and freezing rain are the predominant precipitation at this time.
 - Currently, Charlotte Douglas has 1 to 1.5 inches of snow with ice accumulation.
 - The next winter weather advisory will be posted before 5 p.m.
-

Inclement Winter Weather Advisory No. 2
5:36 a.m., Sunday, Jan.16, 2022

- Charlotte Douglas International Airport remains open.
 - Deicing trucks are on standby if needed by the airlines.
 - Currently, all three parallel runways are open.
 - Airlines are reporting significant cancellations throughout today.
 - Passengers are encouraged to check with their airline for any cancellations or delays before coming to the Airport.
 - The airfield, airport roadways, overpasses and parking lots were pretreated for snow and ice overnight.
 - Drivers are asked to check roadway conditions, which may be dangerous, before leaving for CLT.
 - CLT continues to work with its partners and airlines throughout this inclement weather event.
 - More advisories will be posted today on CLT's website and social media platforms.
-

Inclement Winter Weather Advisory No. 1
4:22 p.m., Saturday, Jan.15, 2022

- Charlotte Douglas International Airport continues to monitor the weather closely and remains open and operational.
- Airlines are reporting flight cancellations for tonight and tomorrow.
- Passengers are advised to check with their airline for any cancellations or delays before coming to the Airport.

- The Airport's snow teams will be activated tonight.
- Airport roadways, overpasses, parking lots and the airfield will be pretreated overnight.
- The Aviation Department continues to work with its partners and airlines to assist passengers.
- Stay tuned to CLT's social media platform for updates.

3 p.m., Friday, Jan. 14, 2022 - Winter weather is expected Saturday through Sunday for the greater Charlotte area and could affect flights in and out of Charlotte Douglas International Airport.

Passengers are encouraged to check with their airline for information about flight status, delays and/or cancellations before coming to the Airport.

Flight information also can be found at cltairport.com/flights. Additional airline contact information is available at cltairport.com/airport-info/airlines.

https://cltairport.mediaroom.com/winter_weather_advisory01_14